The students of Montgomery Bell wish to express their sincere appreciation to the Board of Trustees for the splendid work they have been doing for the betterment of the school. We firmly believe that this Board is composed of the mid-South's most capable men, and that their interests and efforts surpass those of any other southern preparatory school. This year more improvements have been made for the benefit of M. B. A. than have been made for many years. Much credit is also due to the Ladies' Auxiliary for the many improvements they have wrought around the school.

With the Board of Trustees and the Ladies' Auxiliary working hand in hand, the following improvements have been made: a new concrete bridge has been constructed in place of the old wooden one; the front wall has been rebuilt and parts of it cemented; an entire new road system is now being built throughout the campus; a beautiful brick terrace and brick walks are being built in the rear of the main building in memory of Messrs. Tom and Harold Joy; new tennis stops are being obtained; new lockers are being added in the gymnasium; the old bicycle shed has been torn down and a new one built in its place in back of the Science Building; much painting has been done, both inside and outside, on all three buildings; the campus has been landscaped; new draperies have been installed in the Library and in the Honor Room; and many other new improvements are planned.

Academy

Montgomery Bell Academy was originally started in 1806, as the preparatory department of the old University of Nashville. The school started under the conduct of the Board of Trustees of the University of Nashville, and today its operations are conducted by a board still operating under the title of the "Board of Trustees of the University of Nashville."

In 1855 the Western Military Institute was merged with the preparatory school which continued to operate as a department of the University of Nashville. The school continued under this direction until the opening of the Civil War, and for the six years from 1861 through 1866 its activities were dormant. However, in 1867 the Board of Trustees met and decided to accept the legacy of the Honorable Montgomery Bell, a Nashville industrialist and banker, who in 1852 left a trust fund for the education of worthy boys. This trust fund provided for the education of twenty-five worthy boys free of charge, and also stipulated that the school to be established for this purpose must be called "Montgomery Bell Academy." The Trustees of the University of Nashville accepted his legacy and established Montgomery Bell Academy as a separate school and department of the University of Nashville. From September, 1867, to date, the school has been operated as provided in the will of the Honorable Montgomery Bell, and under the direction of the said Board of Trustees of the University of Nashville.

MONTGOMERY BELL

This school takes its name from Montgomery Bell, Nashville industrialist and banker, whose will in 1852 created a trust fund for educational purposes.

M. B. A. is fortunate indeed to have as chairman of its Board of Trustees Mr. Brownlee O. Currey, who has been a student of the school and a lifetime resident of Nashville. To his foresight and industry we owe many of the splendid innovations which have been made, and in his deep and abiding interest we find an additional reason for loyalty to M. B. A.

Foreword

In one hundred thirty-eight years of successful existence, Montgomery Bell Academy has never had a yearbook. One explanation of the fact may be that until a time of world-wide chaos arose, the memory of this school remained particularly clear in the minds of all its graduates. Now, however, in as much as the number of distractions and callings to which each of us finds himself exposed is increasing, and because, too, in times of stress people have a natural tendency to try to put into somewhat secure and permanent form those values and experiences of life which they prize, we, the Senior Class, wish to leave this annual as a record of a great year at Montgomery Bell—a year of special significance to us.

True, the various members of our class may not in life after school demonstrate such qualities of greatness in character and talent as we find in Sam Davis and General Frank M. Andrews, M. B. A. graduates, nevertheless, there does exist in our hearts the ambition to go forth into the world to bring credit to our institution. Great deeds may lie ahead of some of us, but great thoughts and high hearts are for EACH of us an endowment from Montgomery Bell. May the students of the classes here carry on in the true tradition of our school.

THE SENIOR CLASS.

PROFESSOR AND MRS. ISAAC BALL

Dedication

This yearbook cannot go forth without an acknowledgment to Professor and Mrs. Isaac Ball, who have in so many ways been admired and cherished by every class and graduate from Montgomery Bell Academy. Although other students and interested friends have paid tribute to them in numerous thoughtful ways and excellently chosen phrases, we also wish to express an appreciation and affection for what they have given to the students of this school.

To us the following quotation from Thomas Huxley serves to describe the aim which these two persons must have had in mind throughout all their relationship with the many boys with whom they have come in contact.

"That man, I think, has had a liberal education who has been so trained in youth that his body is the ready servant of his will and does with ease and pleasure all the work that, as a mechanism, it is capable of; whose intellect is a clear, cold, logic engine, with all its parts of equal strength and in smooth working order; ready, like a steam engine, to be turned to any kind of work, and spin the gossamers as well as forge the anchors of the mind; whose mind is stored with a knowledge of the great and fundamental truths of Nature and of the laws of her operations; one who, no stunted ascetic, is full of life and fire, but whose passions are trained to come to heel by a vigorous will, the servant of a tender conscience; who has learned to love all beauty, whether of Nature or of art, to hate all vileness, and to respect others as himself."

Further, Professor Ball's arm around our shoulders and Mrs. Ball's smile have served not only to inspire us, but also to guide us toward this ideal. It is one thing to know what one is to do or be; it is an entirely different thing to do or to be it. Toward this latter goal, too, Professor and Mrs. Ball helped us forward.

Headmaster

Mr. Howard Allen might almost be said to have grown up with the school—a fact which perhaps accounts for his fine understanding of the boys and their problems. First a student, then the head of the athletic department for eight years, and now our esteemed Headmaster, he is truly a vital part of the school. His practical suggestions and inspiring willingness to help us have been of great benefit to Montgomery Bell Academy.

This, the last will and testament of the graduating class of 1944 of Montgomery Bell Academy, was drawn up in order to bequeath the following items to the following persons:

John Butterfield leaves one thousand pounds of butter to the lunchroom for the improvement of meals.

Robert Cooney leaves his speed records on the highways to Charles Nagy.

Corky Corbitt leaves his teeth to next year's football squad.

Billy Dillon leaves his wild and wooly week ends to Bobby Zanone.

Billy Fields leaves his attendance records to Travis Smith.

Greer Frierson leaves his night life to Mr. Hackman.

George Gage leaves his literary genius to Boots Lewis.

Hooper Huggins leaves his hairless legs to Morris Brown.

Clarence Hunt leaves his carrots to "Honey Bunny" Currey.

Joe Hutton leaves his "love" for the teachers to Sonny Baker.

Jack Larabee leaves his infernal questions to Tom Proctor.

Lloyd Miller leaves his beer belly to Al Whitson.

Davenport Mosby leaves Emmie Osment.

Earl Odom leaves his bubbling energy to H. E. Cantrell.

Bland Houston leaves his scientific genius to Alf Adams.

Bobby Stone leaves the Amanda Country Club to the junior Romans.

NATIONAL SENIOR HONOR SOCIETY

Near the beginning of the present century, when the great increases in enrollment in the secondary schools of the country stimulated the development of the social aspects of the high school through extracurriculum activities, forward-looking educators began to realize that scholarship was not receiving its rightful emphasis among the social and athletic activities which already were holding the center of the stage. The National Association of Secondary School Principals discussed the organization of a society to honor scholarship, and so the National Honor Society was organized in 1921.

This organization has grown rapidly. At the present there are more than three thousand chapters, of which three hundred ninety-seven are Junior Honor Society Chapters. The standards of the schools in which chapters may be established must be equal to those of schools accredited by such agencies as the North Central Association. Members are elected to the Junior Honor Society from the junior high schools. Their scholastic average must be eighty-eight or above. The senior members are elected from the senior high schools. Their average must be ninety or above. The fundamental principles of the society are character, leadership, scholarship, and service.

Montgomery Bell Academy received charters to both chapters in 1943.

From time to time various problems occur in the school that can only be and should only be handled by the boys themselves. For that reason, the School Committee was formed many years ago. The members — one from the grade department, one from the freshman class, two from the sophomore class, three from the junior class, and four from the senior class — are elected by the various classes to represent them in committee meetings. With its chairman, Charles Robinson, this committee has been very successful this year settling many problems that have come up.

MAROON AND WHITE

GENE HARRIS, Assistant Editor

The editors of THE MAROON AND WHITE take this opportunity to express their hopes for the future character and management of this book. We would like to see it gradually expand until every phase of the school life is well covered. We also hope that this annual may continue to present an objective review of the school year and show school life just as it is. (Nearly all pictures in this annual were taken just as the boys came dressed for school, and the boys were not dressed up in suits and ties.)

The whole staff herein extends its thanks to Miss Mary Helen Simpson and Mr. Howard Allen, faculty advisers, for their great contribution to this book. The staff also wishes to express appreciation to the student body for its cooperation in the worth-while task of publishing this MAROON AND WHITE.

THE CAMPUS COURTSTERS

COACH MORRISSEY

COACH RULE

Montgomery Bell Academy, famous for its tennis teams, hopes to live up to its reputation in the near future with the splendid material it has now. With Joe Davis, John Hyden, Richard Shillinglaw, and Lewis Lyne, all famous M. B. A. tennis stars, the school has a high goal to make; but with its team built around Billy Ferguson, one of Nashville's top tennis stars, it has a good start. The top five players are Billy Ferguson, Dan Denney, Royal McCullough, Brownlee Currey, Jr., and Kermit Stengel, Jr.

CAMPUS LIFE

G O L F T E A M

Charlie Robinson, number one man, is captain of the team, and he has played steady golf on the team for three years.

Buddy Hewitt, number two man, is playing his second year on the team, and his game steadily improved over last year.

Barron Seiferd, number three man, is playing for his first year on the team. He is graduating this year and will be the only man on the team that won't return.

Edward McManus, number four man, is playing his first year on the team. He is a sophomore this year, and he should be a very important cog in the golf team for the next two years.
